

RECIPROCITY MEASURE SIGNED BY PRESIDENT TAFT TODAY; IS NOW UP TO THE CANADIAN GOVERNMENT

BECOMES EFFECTIVE AS SOON AS THE CANADIAN GOVERNMENT PASSES UPON THE QUESTION.

SENSATIONAL CASES

Editor Keesley of the Chicago Tribune Subjected to Cross-examination in the Lorimer Incident—Other Interesting Statements Made.

[BY UNITED PRESS.] Washington, D. C., July 26.—President Taft this afternoon signed the Canadian pact as passed by both the House and the Senate. It will now be forwarded to Ottawa where it will be handled by the Canadian government. It is expected it will pass that body and be in force by December.

Washington, July 26.—That charges were made to former Attorney General Bonaparte that the Steel corporation gave refunds of three dollars a ton to the Harvester combine companies was refuted today when Chairman Stanley introduced into the proceedings of the Steel investigation a report on the Harvester "Trust" made to Secy. Bonaparte in 1908 by Special Department Investigator Townsend.

Seek Bonaparte. Gen. Bonaparte has been subpoenaed in an effort to ascertain why no action was taken against the Harvester company. Chairman Stanley will endeavor to show a very close connection between the Steel corporation and the Harvester company.

Charges Violations. The Townsend report charges the Harvester company with violating the anti-trust law. "I learned," Townsend said, "of many alleged dishonest acts of the Harvester company such as legislative bribing, tax dodging, etc."

To Give Testimony. Attorney General W. H. Clegg was subpoenaed to identify Townsend's report and to testify concerning the Harvester company.

Never Saw Report. Wickersham testified this afternoon that he had never seen the Townsend report.

More Lorimer. Now Governor Alford pardoned former Governor Hillier, of the Chicago Tribune, convicted of embezzlement, and the claim that the knowledge of the undervaluation of the Tribune's property for assessment purposes, might have been a factor in the young man's fall, figured at the Lorimer investigation today.

Not Lawless. Kewley was questioned about "men being killed or maimed" in the Tribune office. He admitted that men had been hurt, but he denied it was a lawless place.

Lorimer's Fund. It is likely that the heads of the big stock yards companies of Chicago will be subpoenaed to explain the alleged use of "Lorimer" money, in the Lorimer election, as indicated by Kewley.

Promise Defeat. Senators Smith and Crane, who talked with the President today, predicted an adjournment of Congress August 10th with the wool revision defeated. It is said, however, an attempt will be made by the insurgents to tack an amendment revising the wool schedule on the farmers' free bill. The wool vote is up in the Senate tomorrow. The farmers' bill comes up August 1.

Pass Warren Bill. The Senate today passed the Warren bill, allowing the homebased claimants in the drought-stricken districts of the Dakotas and Nebraska to leave the lands until April 15, next, without the loss of rights.

Pomeroy's Resolution. Senator Pomeroy today called up his resolution instructing the attorney general to prosecute criminally the officers of the Standard Oil and American Tobacco company for alleged violation of the anti-trust laws. Senator Pomeroy declared the American people cannot understand why no criminal prosecutions against the companies have been instituted.

Berger Sees Taft. Congressman Victor Berger, the socialist member from Wisconsin, paid his first visit to the White House today. He asked the President to pardon Dewey Carter, a Texas youth, who is serving five years for stealing five dollars while employed in the postoffice department. The President will consider the case.

To Aid Postmen. Berger also asked the President to take action toward allowing the letter-carriers to perform their duties on hot days in shirt sleeves instead of heavy coats. The President promised to act on this.

Makes Charges. A sensational charge was made to the House committee investigating the postoffice department today that Leonard Goodwin, a Chicago lawyer, and brother of the assistant attorney general for postoffice department, was exploiting the mail order houses, telling them he could arrange any trouble over the denial of mail privileges. The charge made by E. G. Lewis of the Publishing Company, St. Louis, recently denied second class privileges.

The same law applies to muskellunge less than four pounds round or two pounds dressed weight, and to sturgeon less than eight pounds round or four pounds dressed weight. The old rules as to shipments prevail.

CROPS ARE SAVED BY TIMELY SHOWERS

Corn, Potatoes and Tobacco Greatly Benefited by Yesterday's Rain and Prospects for a Good Crop Are Encouraging.

—Other Items.
(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Farmers in the vicinity of Janesville, especially those who live south of the city, where the crops were damaged most by the drought, are feeling much more hopeful after the heavy rain of yesterday.

On the sandy land near South Janesville the corn and potatoes were beginning to wither and the farmers there were losing hope for the harvest. The rains of yesterday came in the nick of time and there are still good prospects for a good yield of these crops. Corn, especially, has been benefited very much and today its appearance is entirely different from that of a few days ago.

Early potatoes are expected to be a rather light crop owing to the lack of rain just at the time when the crop needed it most. Later crops have much time yet for growth and the recent rains will be of inestimable benefit to them. Most of the farmers expect about two-thirds of a crop from both the early and later potatoes and anticipate high prices in the fall as the result of the failure of crops in the west and in other sections of the northern states.

Tobacco has also been benefited greatly by the rain of yesterday. At this stage in its growth this crop needs plenty of rain and in some sections it was badly in need of moisture. Taking the crops as a whole they are expected to be equal to the average throughout this section and now that the threat of a longer dry spell has been driven away the farmers are looking forward much more hopefully for the close of the harvest.

ELEVATOR LEASED BY GREEN & SON

Local Feed Firm to Take Possession of Elevator Owned by Milwaukee Elevator Company in This City.

P. H. Green & Son, dealers in grain and feed, of this city, have leased the Milwaukee Elevator Company at the corner of North Main street and Fourth Avenue for a term of years and expect to open for business, buying and selling rye, barley and other grains raised in this vicinity, about August 1. The deal for the lease was completed on Monday when Harold Green, junior member of the firm, signed the contract.

The building will be used for the enlargement of the business of the firm, which now occupies a store building and warehouse on North Main street. The elevator has a capacity for about ten thousand bushels of grain and will furnish storage for about five or six cars of mill feed.

They will occupy both their present warehouse in the Myers building on North Main street and the elevator for a time at least. The elevator furnishes the needed facilities for Green & Son in their business. They have been somewhat handicapped in buying and selling in that they had no place to store large shipments.

The local firm will take over the entire business of the elevator company, shipping to outside markets as well as handling their local trade. The Milwaukee Elevator company has not operated its local branch since the middle of this month.

Last evening the members of the Superintendents' Association, a branch organization of the Industrial and Commercial club, held a most interesting meeting at the mayor's office in the city hall.

It was decided to invite Mr. Crowhart, chairman of the state committee which the law has created, to come to Janesville and speak on the subject. If Mr. Crowhart can be present, Assemblyman Fry of La Crosse, who introduced the measure, has promised to be here at some convenient date. Secretary John Goller this morning wrote to Mr. Crowhart and expects a reply as to the date he can come, within a few days. As soon as this is known a general mass meeting of all manufacturers, business men, workers and superintendents will be called, at which the law will be fully explained in all details and all questions answered.

WONDROUS PAINTING DRAWS BIG CROWDS

Exhibit of De Mareau's Masterpiece in Illuminated Frame at Costwick's Store Attracts Lovers of Art.

Crowds of people are daily flocking to the second floor of the store of J. M. Costwick & Sons to witness the picture, "The Village Blacksmith," by De Mareau, which this firm has secured for two weeks. Not only art lovers, but those who have not the intimate knowledge of the technique of the painter, are struck with the singular beauty and realistic effect of this masterpiece.

The canvas, which measures seven by eight feet is mounted and illuminated in order to bring out every detail of the masterpiece.

The scene depicted in the interior of a blacksmith shop in France with the smith standing by his fire at work. De Mareau has portrayed a speaking likeness. His brush has put on canvas a marvelous representation of life and color, all true to nature and so accurately wrought as to make it seem a living reality. This is the highest type of realism, and in it De Mareau certainly excels. The technique is accurate, true to standards and in full consonance with the canons of art. The grouping is superb, true in every detail and alien to no artistic demand. It is, however, in the coloring that this wonderful work of art excels. Such light effects are rarely put on canvas. There are contrasting lights to test the artist's skill. Through the open window streams the garish Gallic sunlight. From the forge radiates the glow of hot coals, besides which is the less intense glow of a red hot horseshoe. The picture tells its own story of the nobility of labor. There is a man at his daily toil. He is a venerable, patriarchal man, who does not deem it beneath him to be at his place of employment doing his allotted task. His face is calm and thoughtful, serious even, as becomes one intent on the discharge of his duty. Thus the picture may be called an ode of labor.

It brings to mind forcibly and vividly Longfellow's beautiful poem: "The Smith, a mighty man is he, With large and snowy hands; And the muscles of his brawny arms Are strong as iron bands."

Auto Parties: Auto parties in the city today, registered at the Myers hotel, were: Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Weldek and James Hindine of Beloit, and J. K. Farley and party of four of Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Sam Anderson, Mrs. Terry and son, and Howard Nowell of Stoughton, stopped at the Myers yesterday. Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Kanders and Mr. and Mrs. L. G. J. Mack of Milwaukee were registered at the Grand hotel over night.

Useless. It is useless to try to get women to believe there can be anything real about a man who is willing to load his wife down with jewelry.

NEW OPPORTUNITIES.

ALLEGED FORGER CAPTURED TODAY

Harold Rowley Arrested, Charged With Forgery Name of C. T. Wright to Check Signed by L. Kennedy.

Harold Rowley, a local man, is under arrest at the police station, charged with forging the name "C. T. Wright" to a check for four dollars, signed by L. Kennedy, a dealer in furs. Rowley, it is alleged, presented the check for payment at the fruit store of Dion Condon, a Greek, on the Milwaukee street bridge, on the sixth or seventh of July, claiming he had been working for Kennedy and desired to get the money. Rowley, it is alleged, signed the name "C. T. Wright" on the check. The money was paid to him, but one of Condon's employees, who came from Rockford, recognized Rowley, whose home was formerly in Rockford, and became suspicious of Rowley's record in the Forest City. It is said, it is found on the books of the police court there, from where, it is said, he was sent to the reform school and has been brought up for several minor offenses.

Wright Lost Check.
"C. T. Wright" is Christ. Wright, the aged barnsman on South River street, who was taken from the river Tuesday morning by the officers. Kennedy had his headquarters in Wright's shop on South River street and whenever Kennedy was absent from the city, Wright often paid for the purchases made by Kennedy, receiving the money from the fur trader later.

Wright claimed that he had lost the check about the fourth of July and said that the signature on the back was a forgery. Rowley may be arraigned late this afternoon.

ROCK COUNTY THIRD IN AMOUNT ALLOWED FROM HIGHWAY FUND

MILWAUKEE AND DANE COUNTIES ONLY AHEAD OF ROCK IN AMOUNT OF HIGHWAY AID FOR 1912.

MAY RECEIVE $10,185

$350,000 is Total Amount of Fund Available for Distribution Pro Rata Among Counties of State Next Year.

According to the preliminary allotment of the state highway funds for 1912, Rock county will receive $10,185, or the third largest amount of any county in the state. The total amount of money which is allowed for distribution under the provisions of Chapter 237, laws of 1911, is $350,000, which is divided among the different counties of the state according to the percentage of state tax paid in 1911. Rock county's percentage is 2.91.

Seven Highest Counties.
Milwaukee and Dane counties are ahead of Rock in the amount of money which will be allowed. The former with a percentage of state tax in 1911 of 13.75 is allowed $98,500. Dane county with a percentage of 4.63 is allotted $16,205. Dodge county comes fourth with a percentage of 2.75 giving a division of $9,625; Fond du Lac is fifth with a percentage, 2.64, giving $9,240; Winnebago is sixth, percentage 2.54, amount, $8,890; Racine seventh, percentage, 2.53, amount, $8,855.

The law is so drawn that state aid is available in 1912 in those towns which have voted a tax to build roads in 1912 under the county aid system, but those towns which have not so voted will have to vote a tax at a special meeting held on or before September 1, 1911, in order to receive the state aid in 1912. This leaves a very short time for action on the part of towns which have not already voted the tax.

Entitled Under Law.
The amount which is allotted to Rock county and to all the other counties as well, are what they will receive if they ask for all that they are entitled to get under the law. It is thought probable that some of the counties will not apply for their full allotment, in which case the amount not asked for will be divided pro rata between the counties asking for more than their full allotment.

It is planned by the State Highway Commission to make the campaign for good roads general throughout the state, and it was through their efforts that the present law for the allotment of state aid was passed. The members of the commission are especially anxious to get the provisions of the act in working order for 1912 so that the various counties may take advantage at once of the money allowed from the state. During the past comparatively few counties have been operating under the county aid laws previously in effect.

Southern Counties.
Counties neighboring to Rock in the southern part of the state have been allotted amounts of the state fund as follows: Green, percentage of state tax paid in 1911, allowing $6,290; Jefferson, percentage, 1.55, allowing $6,225; Walworth, percentage, 1.95, allowing $6,755; Kenosha, percentage, 1.52, allowing $5,720; La Crosse, percentage, 1.43, allowing $5,065; Grant, percentage, 1.97, allowing $6,895; Waukesha, percentage, 1.92, allowing $6,700; Iowa, percentage, 1.38, allowing $4,830. Florence county is allowed the least amount with $490.

PLANS SETTLED FOR FRESH AIR CHILDREN

SUMMER CLUB OF HOUSEHOLD ECONOMICS DEFINITELY SETTLED ITS PLANS YES, TERDAY.

TWENTY-FIVE COMING

That Number of Children From the Poor Districts of Chicago Will Arrive in Janesville Next Week.

When the Summer Club of Household Economics decided that they would again bring a number of children out from Chicago this summer, the arrangements were left in the hands of the Philanthropic department of the club, and a committee consisting of Mrs. J. B. Day, chairman; Mrs. George Hummel, Mrs. E. O. Kimbrey, and Mrs. C. L. Bates, of Beloit, were appointed to carry the plan through. Yesterday afternoon this committee met at Mrs. Day's home and their plans were definitely decided upon.

Twenty-five To Come.
During the past three years, the Economics club has taken charge of over one hundred children. This year they plan to bring twenty-five little ones from the poor district of Chicago, and entertain them for two weeks in and around Janesville. The children will be brought here on August 1st. The children that are coming will be from the very worst districts in Chicago, that is, worst in point of view of conditions of life. These two districts, known as the Noble and the Austin, are filled with tenement houses where often anywhere from twelve to twenty-four families are crowded into one building; such things as screens are unknown, and the means of getting air and light the poorest imaginable. It is from conditions such as these that the Economics Club will offer the children an opportunity to get away. They will be able to get out into the light and fresh air and sunshine, and to be among the flowers and see something of nature.

Means Much To Children.
People who live near the country and have pleasant well-lighted homes, do not realize what it means to the children of the city streets to get away from the dark, squalid tenements and be able to live in the open fresh air. Anyone would profit, by a trip through these "mean" districts where the older children have to go to blocks to a ready-made playground, and where the younger children have no playground at all except under dark stairways or similar places.

In the 17th ward, or the Commons district from whence the children to be entertained by the Economics Club are to come, the conditions are about the worst of anywhere in Chicago, and the ladies in taking the little children away from this life, even for a little while, are doing a very great good.

Injured While Cranking His Automobile Today

While cranking an auto today Wallace Mikkelsen, a chauffeur in the employ of A. J. Harris, received a severe bruise on the leg near the knee and it was feared that the bone is broken. The crank "kicked" and struck him on the knee and disabled him so that he was brought to the office of Dr. F. W. Vankirk for treatment. Upon examination the doctor could not determine fully at first the extent of the injuries sustained and the wounded leg was examined under the X-ray to learn if the bone was fractured.

WHERE FARMERETTES

New York City.—The colony of farmerettes near Hempstead, Long Island, established by Mrs. Oliver H. Belmont, has already passed the experimental stage and is becoming a serious potential problem. The colony aims to open the door to a new profession for women. The seriousness of these strenuous efforts to provide an opportunity for women to demonstrate what they can do in agriculture and horticulture is seen at a glance on a trip to the Long Island colony. Here the women don the farmer's hat and overalls, drive the teams to market, work in the hayfields, and do all the mental tasks of farm life. The farm is 250 acres, stretching back to the famous Meadow Brook club.

RULE THE ROGS

Mrs. Laura Dutton Williams is the directress of the Brookholt Agriculture School and is a practical farmeress. She is a woman of warmth and rare charm of personality and of unusual keen intelligence.

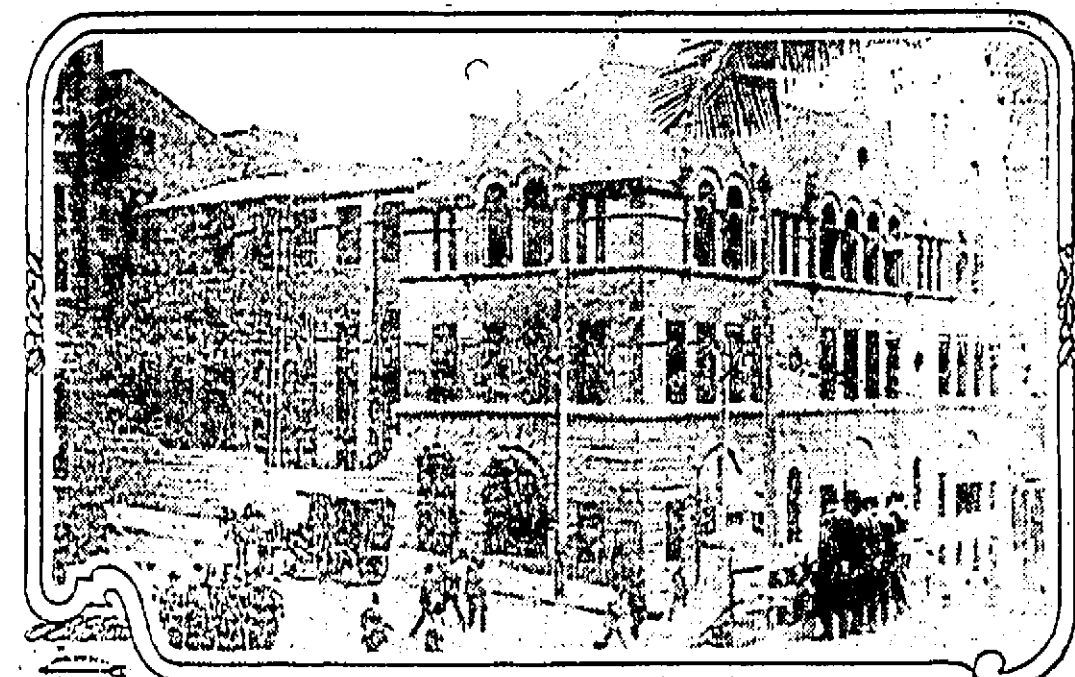

At the present time there are eighteen girls and residents at the school. The capacity of the school is 25. Mrs. Belmont has erected a thoroughly comfortable farm house and dormitories with a common room fitted up with a library, a piano, reading and writing desks. Altogether it is one of the most unique places in the United States.

COTTON TARIFF REVISION
RATIFIED BY DEMOCRATS

House Members in Caucus Vote to Reduce Customs Rates by Nearly One-Half.

Washington, July 26.—Following a prolonged discussion the Democratic members of the house in caucus ratified by a large majority the bill recently drafted by the Democratic members of the ways and means committee for a revision of the cotton tariff.

This revision reduces by nearly one-half the schedules of the Payne-Aldrich law on manufactures of cotton. The bill will be introduced in the house and its passage expedited.

The bill was not ratified without protest, and a vigorous effort was made by many Democrats to upset the party legislative program and to prevent adjournment of the special session of congress by blazing away with tariff revision all down the line, even if such action would throw the session into the late fall.

The committee estimates that under the new rate the revenue to be derived in 12 months from the cotton tariff will be $10,500,000, a decrease of a little more than $5,000,000 from last year under the Payne-Aldrich law.

Cotton clothing duties are reduced from 40 to 30 and 25 per cent.; cotton cloth, not mercerized or bleached, cut to 15, 20 and 25 per cent. in various grades, and cloth composed of silk or mercerized cut from 42.46 to 25 per cent.

Though all resolutions were defeated no decisive action on the time of adjournment was taken. That question will be settled at a later caucus.

POPE PIUS' CONDITION WORSE.

Physicians Note Rising Temperature, But Express No Alarm.

Rome, July 26.—The condition of the pope, who is suffering from a sore throat, is less satisfactory. Doctor Petrucci, the pontiff's private physician, and Doctor Marchisiani, consulting physician at the Vatican, found their patient with a temperature higher than that of the previous day, when a slight rise above the normal was noted. The general symptoms, however, it is said, are not alarming.

For Railway Safety Devices.

St. Paul, Minn., July 26.—Representatives of the state railroad commissions of Wisconsin, Missouri, Illinois, Iowa, North Dakota, South Dakota and Minnesota, met here today to confer on steps to secure uniform regulations in regard to the installation and maintenance of railway safety devices.

Wants Dividends Paid

Pittsburg, Pa., July 26.—Stockholders of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company assembled in Pittsburg today to take part in what promises to be the most important annual meeting since George Westinghouse was ousted from the presidency of the great corporation several years ago. Dissatisfaction with the present management is believed to have reached the point calling for decisive action. For months the stockholders have been clamoring for some return on their investment, but those in control have continued to pass the dividend, notwithstanding that a dividend has been earned and the company's surplus has been steadily accumulating. Should the plans of the dissatisfied stockholders be successfully it is probable that Mr. Westinghouse, who has been the ruling genius of the company since its inception, will be restored to his position as the head of the corporation.

A Congress For the Races

London, July 26.—Fifty nations, including the United States, are represented at the First Universal Races Congress, which was opened today at the University of London. The congress will discuss a wide range of topics with a view to bringing about closer and more harmonious relations between the Occident and the Orient. Questions of a purely political character will not be considered. The sessions will last four days. Papers or addresses have been prepared for the congress by Dr. Felix Adler, Israel Zangwill, W. E. B. Du Bois of Atlanta University, General Legation, ex-President of Hally, Wu Ting Fang, late Chinese ambassador at Washington, Dr. Felix von Luschan, of the University of Berlin, and numerous other persons of international reputation.

Archbishop Prendergast Enthroned

Philadelphia, Pa., July 26.—The Most Rev. Edmund F. Prendergast was enthroned this morning as Archbishop of the Roman Catholic archdiocese of Philadelphia, with much state and ceremonial. The cathedral was filled to its capacity with church dignitaries and distinguished representatives of the laity. Preceding the ceremonies of the installation there was an imposing procession of altar boys, seminarians, priests and prelates from the cathedral chapel of the cathedral. The ceremony was concluded with the celebration of a pontifical mass. Among the prelates who took part were Bishops Fitzmaurice of Erie, Shanahan of Harrisburg, Canevin of Pittsburg, Hoban of Scranton and Garvey of Altoona.

The Skin and Not the Blood.

Until recently it has been a generally accepted proposition that eczema was a disease of the blood, and that in order to cure it, the blood must be purified and enriched by internal remedies. Careful experiments and scientific investigations have taught us that eczema is purely a skin disease, and curable through the skin alone. A great majority of persons afflicted with eczema have no other ailment, which is accepted as positive proof that it is purely a skin disease. Having established this fact, the chemists of the American Drug and Pross Association set about to compound a prescription that would successfully cope with this disease, and after much investigating brought out Meritol Eczema Remedy, the effect of which is marvelous. If you are afflicted with this loathsome disease, do not delay trying Meritol Eczema Remedy. You will be surprised at its prompt action, its soothing effect and its permanent results. WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

IN THE town of Blufford, Maine, two men and a woman were recently jailed on very serious charges, because the two little daughters of the woman told the sheriff some startling stories about a grave out in their yard.

Fortunately, the man who was supposed to have been inhabiting the grave appeared in the nick of time and proved that he had not been murdered and the accused were set free.

And now—courage comrades, this is what I am drifting at—the children's idea of a grave from a story which he once told them. To frighten them away from the swamp and brook in which there are some deep and dangerous holes, he says he told the children that a man and two cows were buried in that vicinity.

A rather ludicrous outcome for a near-tragic situation, don't you?

But I don't believe that father will try again very soon to make his children mind by making up bug-a-boos for them, do you?

And I just hope that some of the fathers and mothers who read about this woman's narrow escape from a murder trial will also be impressed with the same lesson.

Not long ago an even more terrible tragedy than this was caused by the same trick. A woman who was crossing the Atlantic with two little children tried to keep the baby from crying by telling him that if he cried again she would throw him out the porthole into the ocean. A few minutes later, while the mother was out of the stateroom, the baby cried and the other child actually carried out its mother's threat.

Of course these are unique and horrible examples of the danger of telling lies to children to frighten them into obedience. Let's take a more commonplace one. A prominent doctor has recently written to me to ask if I will protest against using the doctor as the bear with which to frighten children. He says he is constantly hampered in his diagnosis of children's diseases by their unresponsive terror because they have been told that if they aren't good their mother will get the doctor to come and cut out their tongues or perform some other "pleasant" little operation. The result is that when they are really sick and the doctor is sent for they run screaming away at sight of him and a careful diagnosis is almost impossible. That really serious results might follow from such a state of affairs anyone can easily see.

Every fear is a letter to our fullest development and our freest action. We who are older have learned this by hard experience. Then, surely, we ought to try to free our children from any fears that they may naturally have instead of serving our momentary convenience by binding them with new shackles.

ONE may be instinctively a mother. But nature in implanting the maternal instinct seems to have thought no farther, and out of the overlooked furnishing the necessary qualifications for being a mother-in-law. Yet the woman who is a mother usually graduates, in the course of time, into being a mother-in-law. And she has neither instinct nor a correspondence course to help her to a right discharge of her duty.

Indeed, if anything, instinct is against her. For the very feelings that make her a good mother, in the primitive sense array her against being a good mother-in-law. She is apt to resent the fact of some one's also coming into her child's life and occupying so important a place there. She feels oftentimes that she has been dispossessed. She is pretty sure to believe that no one can or will give her child what she has given. And these millstone against her being a good mother-in-law.

But being a mother-in-law is perhaps one of the ways an inextinguishable providence has provided for development of character. For the overcoming of those traits that are adverse to her being a good mother-in-law mean the growth of fine character.

To be a good mother-in-law, she must be unselfish. She must be willing to stand aside and let somebody else do the things for her child that she has always done. She must do this cheerfully and without making a moan. She can no longer consider herself and what she wishes to do. She must look at her child's life through her child's eyes and accept the verdict.

She must learn self-control, perhaps of a new kind. Even if she thinks the party of the other part is not doing all he or she might by her own darling, she must learn to hold her temper, to keep her hands off. When her child comes to her with a grievance, she must put down that feeling of selfish elation that, after all, mother has not been replaced, and counsel wisely, with no regard to her own wishes but solely for the child's welfare. She must not encourage complaining. She must not side with her child simply because he or she is her child. She must try to see justice, on whichever side it may lie, and counsel accordingly.

She must cultivate tact, for even with the best of intentions, mother-in-law often makes trouble. A diplomat scarcely needs the tact that does a mother-in-law.

So, being a mother-in-law is no easy job. About the only key to the problem is love. Strong, disinterested, unselfish love will help her play the part wisely and make her presence as welcome to the in-law son or daughter, as it is to the child that is her own.

WHAT DO YOU PLAN FOR ENTERTAINMENT DURING THE SUMMER?

Your Ideas on This Important Matter Are Sought by the Gazette Feature Editor.

The summer months present many possibilities as well as a number of problems in this matter of entertaining guests, and how it may be solved in most interesting to the readers of the Woman's Page.

There is not one reader who has not had some problem of this nature to solve, and the manner in which it was done as well as the plans for the party or dinner, will no doubt, be of value. The Feature Editor desires to secure those ideas which have been the result of experience in most instances, and would like to receive an article from every woman reader.

The scope of the present contest is a broad one and included for example, the preparation of a summer day's meal for guests who came unexpected. From things at hand what did you do in such a case as this? Along with this came the question, perhaps of entertaining for the afternoon or evening. What you did in this regard would follow along with the plans for the dinner.

For a more elaborate article, it might be suggested that the writer prepare a schedule for several days and evenings of entertaining, recording how the time might be occupied.

All articles must be received by the Feature Editor of the Gazette by August 1st. The prizes are:

First Prize—Caloric Wireless Cook-stove.

Second Prize—Set of 45 pieces of Flow Blue Dishes.

Third Prize—Vacuum Bottle.

The contest will end August 1st.

A GREAT part of the happiness of life consists not in fighting battles, but in avoiding them. A miserably retreat is itself a victory. —Longfellow.

COLD DESSERTS.

Anything that is called cold sounds refreshing during the hot summer days. The following are inexpensive and easily made, two qualifications in these days of high prices and scarcity of help.

Coffee Custard.—Scald two cups of milk with two tablespoons of ground coffee, or use cold coffee left from breakfast. Strain it and add three eggs beaten slightly, a quarter of a cup of sugar, two cups of milk, a pinch of salt and a teaspoonful of vanilla. Strain into individual molds that have been rinsed with cold water, and set in a pan of hot water in the oven to bake. Treat them with a knife. When it comes out clean the custard is done. Set away to chill. Serve cold.

Snow Balls.—Sift together several times a half cup of flour, two teaspoons of baking powder, and an eighth of a teaspoonful of salt. Beat the yolks of two eggs, add a half cup of powdered sugar, one and a half tablespoons of water. Add to the flour, and when well mixed cut and fold in the whites, beaten stiff. Steam in buttered cups for twenty minutes. Roll in powdered sugar. Serve with fruit sauce or whipped cream.

Rebecca Pudding.—Mix half a cup of cornstarch, a fourth of a cup of sugar, a fourth of a teaspoonful of salt and a half cup of cold milk. Add to three and a half cups of scalding milk and cook fifteen minutes. Add flavoring and the whites of three eggs beaten to a stiff froth. Mold and chill. Serve with a sauce made of the three yolks, a cup of powdered sugar and a teaspoonful of vanilla.

Orange sauce is very nice served with this pudding. Use the whites of three eggs, the juice and rind of two oranges, the juice of a lemon and a cup of sugar. If blood oranges are obtainable, the sauce is unusually pretty.

TOMATOES.

While the tomato contains iron and other mineral food elements, it contains a strong acid which, mixed with other foods indiscriminately, as it commonly is, is distinctly injurious. Beans and tomatoes, potatoes or bread and tomatoes are a bad combination. The tomato should be eaten with acid fruits or green vegetables in the morning, not with the heavier foods.

TALK TO HOUSE-KEEPERS

(By Nellie L. Horn.)

"O, melle is the powerful grace that flows in herbs, plants, stones, and their true qualities."

—Romeo and Juliet.

Though the tomato is generally regarded as a fruit, and has even been classed as a berry, botanists say that it is a vegetable. Marlon Harland has christened for it the title of the "Prince of Household Vegetables." Its wholesomeness, the ease with which it is digested, its stimulating effect on the appetite, and its decorative qualities have all combined to make it one of the most popular of the garden products. Ordinarily, September, or at the earliest, the latter part of August, marks the ripening time of our local tomatoes; but this year most of the gardens have already yielded many luscious, ripe tomatoes.

When they are to be served raw, always remove the skins with a sharp knife, never by scalding, as the latter spoils the flavor. One of the simplest ways of serving them is as follows: Pare them carefully and cut in two, laying each half on a lettuce leaf. Sprinkle with salt and paprika, and garnish with a large spoonful of whipped cream on top. This may be served as a separate course with cream cheese and hot buttered crackers.

Tomatoes and cucumbers combine to make a most appetizing salad. Cut off the tops of well ripened tomatoes and carefully scoop out the most of the pulp. Pare and dice the cucumbers, dropping the dice in cold salted water. Drain off the water, mix with the tomato pulp, and fill the shells with the mixture, heaping it up. Set the tomatoes on lettuce leaves, and pour mayonnaise dressing over them.

Tomatoes and nuts make an equally delightful salad. Pare the tomatoes carefully and scoop out the pulp, leaving enough to form the walls of the cups. Set the pulp aside to be used in tomato soup or with macaroni. Mix chopped pecan or walnut meats with mayonnaise, and fill the shells with this mixture. Set each tomato on a lettuce leaf.

Panned tomatoes make an excellent cooked tomato dish. Cut the tomatoes in halves, and put them in a baking dish. Season with salt and pepper, put in a small lump of butter in the center of each, and bake in a moderate oven for half an hour. When done, gently lift each out and place on a hot platter. Add a cup of milk to the pan, and a tablespoon of flour which has been blended with a tablespoon of melted butter; let it boil up well, season with salt and pepper, and pour it over the tomatoes.

Eggs baked in tomatoes make a very savory and nourishing luncheon dish. Halve large tomatoes, removing most of the pulp. Sprinkle into each hollow a dash of salt, pepper, paprika and sugar. Break the eggs, one at a time into a cup, carefully slip one in to each half, set the tomatoes in a greased pan, and place in a hot oven. Cook until the whites are set, basting with melted butter. Just before serving, sprinkle with minced parsley; serve on rounds of buttered toast.

Stuffed tomatoes provide a most palatable way of using up leftover meat, corn, peas, etc. Cut cups from the tops of large, firm tomatoes and scoop out most of the pulp. Chop the meat fine, season to taste, and add one-third as much bread crumbs. Mix this with the pulp, add a little melted butter, minced parsley and onion, and pack into the cups. Pour a spoonful of gravy into each, replace the caps, and set in a baking dish. Pour a little the gravy into the bottom of the dish, cover closely, and bake for half an hour. Serve in the dish in which they were baked.

Cold cooked corn, peas, or other vegetables may be substituted for meat in this recipe.

Leftover macaroni may also be used in this way, adding grated cheese to the seasoning.

Always Better to Laugh.

Jane Jones said "Laughin' at trouble is a sight more sensible than cryin' at it. I've seen whole families broke up by one measly little quarrel, jes' because none of 'em had sense enough to know when 'twas time for laughin'. You can't stay mad long if all you git is laughin' at an' 'fun pokin'."

WHY SO WEAK

Kidney Troubles May Be Sapping Your Life Away. Janesville People Have Learned This Fact.

When a healthy man or woman begins to run down without apparent cause, becomes weak, languid, depressed, suffers backache, headache, dizzy spells and urinary disorders, look to the kidneys for the cause of it all. Keep the kidneys well and they will keep you well. Don's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and keep them well. Here is Janesville testimony to prove it. Benjamin Schaller, 269 S. River St., Janesville, Wis., says:—"Two years ago I had a great deal of trouble from inactive kidneys. The secretions from my kidneys contained sediment and were otherwise disordered. My back became so lame that it was difficult for me to stoop or lift and I felt all run down. After using Don's Kidney Pills a short time, these symptoms of kidney complaint disappeared and I enjoyed much better health. I could not be induced to endorse Don's Kidney Pills were I not certain of their merits."

This announcement brings an end to the heart-breaking social career of beautiful Miss Vanderbilt. It was in June, 1909, that she was reported to be engaged to Prince Francis Joseph of Braganza. Last year it was rumored in print that she was engaged to Kermit Roosevelt. Ogden Mills, Jr., is a Harvard graduate and a lawyer.

CONVERTS BAPTIZED BY RELIGIOUS SECT

Local Religious Sect Living At Edge of Town On Ruger Avenue Are Holding Their Annual Convention.

Under the leadership of their minister, Mrs. Edwards, the small colony of the religious sect living on Ruger avenue, are having their annual convention. That part of their service which consists of baptism took place yesterday in the midst of the pouring rain. About 150 of the followers went up above north Avenue bridge, and there a number of converts were immersed in Rock River.

This sect, which gives itself no name, but calls itself merely "Followers of Jesus," is not a local organization, but has bodies all over the world, many of their best workers coming from European countries. They are not to be confused with such societies as the Holy Rollers, but have as their ideal the simple life, disbelieving in ornaments, jewelry, and such things. Their missionaries and ministers accept no pay for their work and their life is made as brotherly as possible. On an occasion like the present, when people from all parts of the state are present, they all share alike in the expenses and anything left over goes to the local organization. They are quiet, hardworking people, who mind their own business and bother no one. Some Janesville people have become converted to their faith, and a great many have attended their meetings which are open to all. The service in Janesville have been very well attended, and the visitors say they enjoyed them, finding the people industrious and hardworking.

Good Advice for Preacher.
Among the stories related by the late Rev. Dr. A. F. Pierson was one of a marble-cutter, with chisel and hammer, working a block of stone into a statue. A preacher who was looking on said: "I wish I could, on blocks of stone, deal such transforming blows!" "Perhaps you might," was the workman's quiet answer, "if, like me, you worked on your knees."

NOTES FOR CITY FARMERS ONLY.

Every farmer's home should contain an encyclopedia. You can buy a set of 37 volumes for $1 down and 17 cents a day. Terms—all sums of $10 and under, cash; on all over $10, one year time on bankable notes at 8 per cent. There is no more bracing intellectual tonic than a dose of encyclopedia fiction just before bedtime. Before buying a work of this kind, see that it includes Advice to the Lover, the Lover's Love, and Abuse of Husbands and a Ready Letter Writer. The later editions also contain entertaining and instructive chapters on How to Wiggle Into Society, When and Where to Drink Out of the Silver Jug, How to Get an Ad to Fill Draw, A man who can digest a section of the Encyclopedia Britannica without shuddering his brain cells need never fear senile dementia. In our opinion, an up-to-date encyclopedia is as necessary in the home as a standard crop remedy.

What is the reason that the duck is not more popular on the farm? She is an accommodating and sociable bird, and her only handicap is her gait. A prominent incubator house writes us that they have overcome this by introducing a brand of duck with no more waddle to its tail-feather than a handkerchief. It is a peculiar fact, however, that you can take an enormous duck and deposit her on a setting of hen's eggs and she will hatch out a brood of goslings with a gait like a side-delivery hay rake. The average duck ought to wear toe weights and a high check. This would improve her knee action and make her fully as ornamental as a soft skirt at a church wedding.

The medical fraternity can look no solum as a member of the petti jury over questions which the average layman could settle in his sleep. Just now the British Medical Journal is engaged in a controversy over the inquiry, "Are Prunes Responsible for Appendicitis?" We can see how a man who tries to pin out his appendix with a whirling prune pit might be slipped onto the operating table before he had time to change his socks, but as a producer and hogger of the genuine, hand-squeezed appendicitis grape seed and nutmeg, the prune look about as dangerous as a deaf mute at a spelling match. If you happen to inhale a few prune pits in a moment of abstraction, a coal oil chaser will afford instant relief.

FIRST CONCERT WAS GREATLY ENJOYED

Delightful Program Rendered By the Bower City Band in Court House
Park Last Evening.

Chilly weather and skies which had promised showers at unexpected intervals during the day, lessened the number at the first of the ten band concerts given by the Bower City Band in the Court House Park last evening, but in spite of this a large crowd of people were present. They were well rewarded for their pains, the concert given being a most enjoyable one. The success of the undertaking, which has been in the hands of the Industrial and Commercial Club, as far as the popularity of the concert is concerned, was proved beyond a doubt. Some especially fine selections were rendered by the band and the closing number, "Star Spangled Banner," brought forth hearty applause. The band stand last night was placed in the center of the park just above the fountain, instead of in its previous location at the foot of the hill near the sidewalk. Another concert will be given in a few days. The program was as follows:

Imperial Ma Guards March.
Pompier Medley.
Silliman Chimes—Trevor.
Some Thing Over Again—Waltz.
On Xmas Day—Solo for Cornet, by Prof. Thiele.
Kiss Me, Honey, Kiss Me.

The Taming of Red Butte Western

by FRANCIS LYNDE

Copyright, 1911, by Charles Scribner's Sons.

"Then I'll tell you a fairly tall tale," said the trainmaster, lowering his voice. "I gave you notice that Mr. Lidgerwood would do something different. He did it, bright and early this morning; went to Jake Schelsinger and swore out a warrant for arrest on a charge of assault with intent to kill."

"Sure," said Judson. "That's what any man would do in a civilized country, isn't it?"

"Yes, but not here, John—not in the red colored desert, with Bart Rufford's name in the body of the warrant."

"I don't know why not," insisted the engineer stubbornly. "But go on with the story. It ain't any fairy tale so far."

"When he'd got the warrant, Schelsinger protesting all the while that Bart 'd kill him for issuing it, Mr. Lidgerwood took it to Hepburn and told him to serve it. Jack hurried down so fast that he fell over his feet; said to ask him anything else under heaven, and he'd do it—anything but that."

"Huh," said Judson. "If I'd took an oath to serve warrants I'd serve 'em if it did make me sick at my stomach." Then he got up and shuffled away to the window again, and when next he spoke his voice was the voice of a broken man.

"I lied to you a minute ago, Mac. I did want your job back. I came over here hoping that you and Mr. Lidgerwood might be soul things a little different by this time. I've quit the whiskey. With my record I couldn't get an engine anywhere else in the United States. Can't you see what I'm up against?"

The trainmaster nodded. He was human.

"Well, it's Maggie and the babies now," Judson went on. "They don't starve, Mac, not while I'm on top of earth. Don't you reckon you could make some sort of a play for me with the boss, Jim? He's got bowels."

"No, John. One or two things I've learned about Mr. Lidgerwood—he does not often hit when he's mad, and he doesn't take back anything he says in cold blood. I'm afraid you've cooked your last goose."

"Let me go in and see him. He ain't half as hard hearted as you are, Jim."

The trainmaster shook his head. "No; it won't do any good. I heard him tell Hallock not to let anybody in on him this morning."

"Hallock be —!" Say, Mac, what makes him keep that?—Judson broke off abruptly, pulled his hat over his eyes and said, "Reckon it's worth while to shove me over to the other side, Jim McCloskey?"

"What other side?" demanded McCloskey.

Judson scoffed openly. "You ain't making out like you don't know, are you? Who was behind that break of Rufford's last night?"

"There didn't need to be anybody behind it. Bart thinks he has a kick coming because his brother was discharged."

"But there was somebody behind it. Tell me, Mac, did you ever see me too drunk to read my orders and take my signals?"

"No; don't know that I have."

"Well, I never was. And I don't often get too drunk to hear straight either even if I do look and act like the biggest fool that ever let live. I was in Cat Higgs' day before yesterday noon when I ought to have been down here taking 202 east. There were two men in the back room putting their heads together. I don't know whether they knew I was on the other side of the partition or not. If they did they probably didn't pay any attention to a drizzling idiot that couldn't wrap his tongue around an order for more whiskey."

"Go on!" snapped McCloskey almost viciously.

"They were talking about fixing the boss. One of 'em was for the slow and safe way—small bets and a good many of 'em. The other was for pulling a straight flush up Mr. Lidgerwood right now. 'No, I said no; that thing was moving along all right and it wasn't worth while to rush. Then something was said about a woman. I didn't catch her name or just what the hurry man said about her, only it was something about Mr. Lidgerwood being in shape to mix up in it. At that, I dropped over. 'Pull it off whenever you like,' says he, 'savage-like.' McCloskey sprang from his chair and towered over the smaller man.

"One of those men was Bart Rufford. Who was the other one, Judson?"

CHAPTER X.

FLIMSTER AND OTHERS.

JUDSON was apparently unmoved. "You're forgetting that I was plum' fool drunk, Jim. I didn't see either one of 'em."

"But you heard."

"Yes, one of 'em was Rufford, as you say, and up to a little bit ago I'd been ready to swear to the voice of the one you haven't guessed. But now I can't."

"Why can't you do it now?"

"Sit down and I'll tell you. I've been jarred. Everything I've told you so far I can remember, or it seems as if I can, but right where I broke off a cog slipped. I must 'a' been drunker than I thought I was. Griddle says he was going by, and he says I called him in and told him, footwise, all the things I was going to do to Mr. Lidgerwood. He says he hushed me up, called me out to the sidewalk and started me home. Mac, I don't remember a single wheel turn of all that, and it makes me scary about the other part."

McCloskey relapsed into his swing chair.

"You said, you thought you recognized the other man by his voice. It sounds like a drunken pipe dream, the whole of it. But who did you think it was?"

Judson rose up, jerked his thumb toward the door of the superintendent's business office and said, "Mac, if the whiskey didn't take the whole business for me the man who was mumbling with Bart Rufford was Hallock."

"Hallock?" said McCloskey. "And you said there was a woman in it. That fits down to the ground, John. Mr. Lidgerwood has found out something about Hallock's family tear-up, or he's likely to find out. That's what that means."

What more McCloskey said was said to an otherwise empty room. Judson had opened the door and closed it and was gone.

Summing up the astounding thing afterward, those who could recall the details and place them together traced Judson thus:

It was 10:40 when he came down from McCloskey's office, and for perhaps twenty minutes he had been seen lounging at the lunch counter in the station end of the Crow's Nest. At about 11 one witness had seen him walking at the arrival in Hepburn's shop, the town marshal being the town blacksmith in the intervals of official duty.

Still later he had apparently forgotten the good resolution declared to McCloskey, and all angels saw him staggering up and down Mesa avenue, stumbling into and out of the many saloons and growing, to all appearances, more hopelessly irresponsible with every fresh stumble. This was his condition when he tripped over the doorstep into the Arcade and fell full length on the floor of the barroom. Grimshy, the barkeeper, picked him up and tried to send him home; but, with good nature and maudlin persistence, he insisted on going on to the gambling room in the rear.

The room was darkened, as befitting its use, and a lighted lamp hung over the center of the oval table as if the time were midnight instead of midday. Eight men, five of them miners from the Brewster copper mine and three of them discharged employees of the Red Butte Western, were the netters. Hedlight himself, in sombrero and shirt sleeves, was dealing, and Rufford, sitting on a stool at the table's end, was the lookout.

Judson stumbled round the table, losing his money and dribbling foolishness. Now, faro is a silent game, and more than once an angry voice commanded the foolish one to choose his place and to shut his mouth. But the ex-miner seemed quite incapable of doing either. Twice he made the waveling circuit of the oval table, and when he finally slipped an empty chair it was the one nearest to Rufford on the right and diagonally opposite to the dealer.

What followed seemed to have no connecting sequence for the other players. Too restless to lose more than one bet in the place he had chosen, Judson fidgeted, tangled his feet in the chair and fell down, laughing uproariously. When he struggled to the perpendicular again, after two or three ineffectual attempts, he was fairly behind Rufford's stool.

One man, who chanced to be looking, saw the lookout start and stiffen rigidly in his place, staring straight ahead into vacancy. A moment later the entire circle of witnesses saw him take a revolver from the holster on his hip and lay it upon the table with another from the breast pocket of his coat to keep it company. Then his my down 'til I get out of here with this pench of mine. I've got the papers, and I know what I'm doing. If this thing I'm holding against Bart's back should happen to go off—"

That ended it, so far as resistance was concerned. Judson backed quickly out through the barroom, drawing his prisoner backward with him, and a moment later angels were properly electrified by the sight of Rufford, the Red desert terror, marching sullenly down to the Crow's Nest, with a fiery headed little man at his elbow, the little man swinging the weapon which had been made to stimulate the cold muzzles of the revolver when he had pressed it into Rufford's back at the gambling table.

It was nothing more formidable than a short, thick S wrench of the kind used by locomotive engineers in tightening the nuts of the piston rod packing glands.

The loosely spectacular arrest of Barton Rufford, with its appeal to the grim humor of the desert, was responsible for a brief lull in the storm of antagonism evoked by Lidgerwood's attempt to bring order out of the chaos reigning in his small kingdom. For a time angels were again again, and while the plaudits were chiefly for Judson the figure of the correctly clothed superintendent who was lounging enough to appeal to the lay loungee large in the reflected light of the red headed engineer's cool daring.

For the space of a week there were no serious disasters, and Lidgerwood, with good help from McCloskey and Benson, continued to dig persistently into the mystery of the wholesale robberies. With Benson's discoveries for a starting point the men Flimster was kept under surveillance, and it soon became evident to the three investigators that the owner of the Wire Silver mine had been profiting liberally at the expense of the railroad company in many ways. That there had been connivance on the part of some one in authority in the railroad service was also a fact easily assumable, and each added thread of evidence seemed more and more to entangle the chief clerk.

Hands were quickly behind him, and they all heard the click of the handcuffs.

The man in the sombrero and shirt sleeves was the first to come alive.

"Duck, Bart!" he shouted, whipping a weapon from his convenient shelf under the table's edge. But Judson, trained to the swift handling of many mechanisms in the moment of respite before a wreck or a derailment, was ready for him.

"Bart's afraid he can't duck without dying," he said grimly, screening himself behind his captive. Then to the others, in the same unflinching tone: "Some of you fellows just quiet Sam."

is now on his way to the Canal where he will meet the Secretary of War and a plan of fortification will be outlined. Here in Washington, Col. Gorthals, chairman of the Canal Commission, has demanded that immediately action be taken to determine the plans of the Panama Canal. They state that the Canal will be ready for traffic in 1912, but that it will require one year further before all details are in shape and the Canal open to foreign countries. Plans are now being made for Senator Brandegee, chairman of the Senate Committee on Inter-oceanic Canals and Representative Adamson of Georgia and others to take a trip to Panama during the Christmas recess next winter and at that time a definite charge per ton displacement will be arrived at so that ship-owners can know exactly where they stand as regards the use of the Canal.
